UTAHN WARD, Duchesne Stake, Duchesne Co., Utah, embraced the Latter-day Saints residing on the Duchesne River, above Duchesne. The center of the ward, where the ward house stood, is six miles north of Duchesne, and eight miles south of Talmage.

Soon after the opening of the Uintah Reservation in 1905, Elijah W. Mayhew and other L. D. S. settlers took up land on the Duchesne River about six miles north of Duchesne. The settlement was founded in 1906 by saints who were organized into a branch of the Church Dec. 17, 1911, with Levi C. White as presiding Elder. It was named the Point of Rocks Branch, but afterwards called Utahn. The original name, Point of Rocks, was suggested because of a point of rocks standing on the east side of the Duchesne River. The Utahn Branch was organized as the Utahn Ward June 30, 1918, with Levi C. White as Bishop, but the ward was disorganized Sept. 24, 1922, and its remaining members were transferred to the Duchesne Ward. Encyc Hist Jensen 709
